5) How should research impact be measured in the rankings?

Please rank the following by importance (5 = very important, 1 = not important). Leave blank if unsure.

	1	2	3	4	5
Publication in FT50 journals	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>
Citation count	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>
Publication in broader range of titles, beyond business/management	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>
Practitioner impact (for example, downloads, mentions in business press)	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>
Broader societal impact (for example, policy references, SDG alignment)	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>

6) Apart from peer reviewed articles, do you have ideas on other useful ways or metrics to assess academic output and impact?

For example, mentions on academic discussion platforms, references/shares on social media, news media, blogs and references to sustainable development goals (SDGs).

How would you measure the value of the methods you have chosen?
